The Golden Triangle (Indonesia - India - Tiongkok)
Interrelations in Religion, Science, Culture, and Economic

Keynote Speech

Prof. H. Mohamad Nasir, Ph.D., Ak.

Minister for Research, Technology, and Higher Education of RI

Hosted by

Wahid Hasyim
University

Jamia Millia Islamia
University

Beijing Language and Culture

A New Golden Triangle consisting of Indonesia, India, and Tiongkok was firstly explored by Abdurrahman Wahid (Gus Dur), former president of Republic of Indonesia. It is based on the fact that they have a great economic potency and in turn will be economic global power. We are going to show some important things about those countries. Tiongkok and India are frequently labeled as future engines of global growth and it's time to add Indonesia to their rank. The country is a marginal supplier of resources to Tiongkok and India, has seen strong per-capita growth in recent years and has attractive demographics. We have termed this grouping, Asia's next growth triangle, Tiongkok, India, and Indonesia.
